

On the Occasion of Consultiva's Tenth Anniversary

It's been ten years since a small group of professionals made a bond and committed to what we believed to be a valuable and innovative idea: A space in the world of financial services that would provide objective, transparent investment advice; a space of high touch and global reach, where a spirit of service, teamwork and pursuit of excellence would reign supreme, in all its converging disciplines: research, idea generation, client service, written and oral communication, thought leadership; a space where we would impart our highest aspirations for our clients without compromise.

Success can be measured in various ways: the pleasure that comes with a sense of purpose; personal and professional growth, the profound satisfaction that comes with a job well done and earns us our keep; overcoming the inevitable frustrations and disappointments that come with the world of the capital markets.

In review, we conclude that the world is indeed a better place because we chose to give way to the dream of Consultiva. And we harbor a deep sense of satisfaction and gratitude as we celebrate this tenth anniversary.

We have much to do still. As we move forward, we continue to be committed to understanding the events and circumstances of the communities we serve, loyalty to our responsibilities and commitments, to serving with the best that is in us, every day; to being a model of excellence, commitment and solidarity: solidarity with our colleagues, our clients and our communities, step by step, day by day.

Please accept our deepest gratitude for your support over these ten years. Let's work together for another ten!

Gratefully,

The Team at Consultiva Internacional, Inc.
